Biog

Brian Inglis is a musician and singer songwriter based in Bristol. His styles cover pop to country rock and blues to soft jazz hopefully providing something for everyone of all ages. Equally at home with covers he can also provide and perform his own material.

Soundbite

"Brian constructs songs and a band with breath taking harmonies before your very eyes and ears, awesome!" Bristol Harbour Festival

Brian's early career included playing guitar and bass in various bands. One of the bands, 'Winters Tale' appeared on ITV's very popular show of the time, 'New Faces' and following their appearance had some success appearing several times on another TV show of the time, 'Summer Time Special'. The band was based in Oxford UK but toured the country, performing on the Mecca / Top Rank and college circuits, they worked extensively in major London hotels with many well known celebrities of the time and enjoyed some good summer seasons in the South West.

Soundbite

"Great Set! Really enjoyed your material." - Paul Gray (Bassist with the Dammed)
The Beacon (formerly Colston Hall), Bristol

In his time Brian has worked with artists such as Bernie Marsden (Whitesnake) Jeff Beck, Rod Stewart, Ronnie Wood, Ian Paice (Deep Purple), Charlie McKracken (ex-Taste), Duane Eddy, Supertramp, Frankie Vaughn, Morecombe and Wise, Des O'Connor, Little and Large, The Baron Knights and many more.

Soundbite

*"AWESOME! How the F@*^ did you do that? Brilliant!"* Great melodies, each song has a story. - Mr Wolfs Bristol

Brian continues to perform mostly as a solo artist and has played on various festival stages including the Bristol Harbour Festival, Redfest, and the Bristol International Balloon Fiesta.

With the subtle use of SFX he can produce a unique full band sound or just a single guitar complete with full vocal harmonies. He plays a tantalising eclectic mix of covers from country rock and pop to soft jazz and blues plus his own material written in those genres thus providing that little bit extra and different.

Soundbite

"Brian Inglis gave us a scintillating set of his infuriatingly catchy songs and as ever it was fascinating to watch him build the tracks up on his electronic box of tricks and effortlessly deliver the sound of a whole band." The Volunteer Tavern, Bristol

Discography.

Brian released has released four albums, a number of singles and an EP. In November 2021 he released his third album of Jazz and Blues crossover music entitled 'Jazz me Blues'.
